Conference Background, Description & Scope

Following the very successful Conference in 2008 in Chios, the forthcoming conference in Crete is already the fifth Project Management Conference in Greece promoting communication between international multi-disciplinary teams in the field of project management and related disciplines.

A solid tradition of international Scientific Conferences on Project Management (SCPM) has been established throughout the past years in Greece. Athens, Thessaloniki and the island of Chios have had the opportunity to host the preceding SCPMs in the years 2001, 2003, 2004 and 2008.

The PM-05 Conference aims to further synergy for closer cooperation, business relations and know-how exchange in project management in the international context. PM-05 will be organized along scientific and professional streams in order to promote both research and business outcomes.

Expected Audience and Call for Papers

A broad audience of project management stakeholders is warmly invited to attend the conference and contribute with their knowledge and experience to the success of the event. The invitation is extended, but not limited to academics, researchers, industrialists, professionals, policy makers, assessors and certification & funding bodies concerned with projects and programmes in every economic sector.

The attendees are also invited to present papers and posters dealing with appropriate PM themes of interest such as:

- Concepts, Techniques & Tools
- Current Issues, New Approaches & Case Studies
- Decision Making, Risk Analysis & Sustainability
- Cross-border Cooperation & Cultural Aspects
- Contract Management, Partnership & PPPs
- Information Technology & Information Systems
- Standards & Maturity Models
- Education, Training & Certification Issues
- Professional Issues & Ethical Codes
- Green project management & sustainability

Papers can deal with research results, case studies, best practices and technology developments. Abstracts and full papers should be submitted on-line through the Conference website
